Acknowledgment

To Charley C. Miller the son of Isaac R. and Minervia A. Miller, we express our sincere appreciation and extend credit for the initiative use in tracing ancestry and other work done in compiling the material for this the Miller Family History.

#3,25 - Remander - 2-1 - My Grant 3

Introduction

The descendants of Phillip Miller born prior to 1725 near Ruthplatz, Germany. There are reasons for being interested in the lives of our forefathers. Pride to be sure, but curiosity digging up information about our ancestral tree. One is inclined to proceed and extol the good fellow who never missed Sunday School.

After many years of research, visiting cemeteries, conducting much correspondence, interviewing many individuals, getting a little here and a little elsewhere, we are able to trace our lineage in one unbroken chain.

If there are a few mistakes and some omissions made it was unintentional. We meant to be impartial and I have been compelled to use just such material as could be obtained. Hoping that it fulfills its mission and meets your approval.

Ancestors and Descendants of John J. Miller

The ancestral home of the Miller family is in Germany. Our lineage has been traced back to (A) PHILLIP MILLER who was born in Ruthpatz, Germany sometime prior to 1725. The Millers stoutly opposed universal military training as practiced in Germany at that time. Because of this opposition the parents of Philip left Germany and moved to the English colony of Maryland. It was in these frontier surroundings that Phillip grew up and married.

Phillip Miller had a family of three boys. Daniel was born in 1753 and died in 1822. (B1) Daniel's descendants lived in Darke and Montgomery counties, Ohio; and in Elkhart county, Indiana. (B2) Abraham upon his maturity moved from Maryland to New York State and no further trace has been found of him. (B3) DAVID, Phillip's third son, was born in Maryland in 1775, the year in which the war for Independence started. He lived here until after his marriage to Abigail Morgan. He then joined the throng that rushed into the new territory which had just been made a little safer by the activities of Daniel Boone. He settled in the vicinity of Louisville, Kentucky. It was here that he resided until his opposition to the growing slavery sentiment in Kentucky caused him to migrate to Montgomery County, Ohio. Here it was he died in 1845.

The children of David Miller were (C1) Michael, (C2) JACOB (C3) Lydia, (C4) Esther, (C5) Catherine, (C6) Elizabeth, (C7) Nancy, and (C8) Susan. The descendents of these children nearly all lived in Montgomery and Darke County, Ohio.

(C2) Jacob Miller was born near Louisville, Kentucky February 17, 1796 and moved to Pennsylvania while yet a young man. It was here that he met and married Mary Michael. Soon after his marriage Jacob and his wife joined in the covered wagon parade to what is now Darke County, Ohio. The wagon bed is on the old Miller homesite. He was among the very first settlers here. Darke County at that time was a dense wilderness of forest and swamps. He settled about three miles north of what is now Gettysburg, Ohio. He lived here until his decease on October 18, 1861. His wife Mary was born April 18, 1799, died March 27, 1842.

The ten children of Jacob and Mary Michael Miller were (D1) David C., (D2) Michael, (D3) JOHN JACOB, (D4) Mary, (D5) Sallie, (D6) Emanuel, (D7) Henry, (D8) Nettie, (D9) Susan and (D10) Martin, the descendants of whom nearly all resided in Darke County, Ohio.

Jacob Miller moved from Pennsylvania to Darke County, Ohio in this wagon.
